

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is partisan, unfair, and illegal. Can you stop them?

The public airwaves are free of charge. So doesn't this mean that Sinclair is obligated by law to serve the public interest? How is a partisan move like airing 'Stolen Honor' in the interest of all the public? It's not. It's only in the interest of some, and I think it's reprehensible.

I am not necessarily for strengthening media ownership rules, but decisions like this one that Sinclair has made, could certainly put me in the camp that does. Thank you.
